1. Approve the following policies brought to you by Forethought Consulting

Public Health Emergency: EBBI

The Louisiana Department of Education (LDOE) recently issued School Reopening Guidelines and Resources to be considered by School Boards as they prepare to reopen schools, and reintroduce students, teachers, and staff into the actual physical school environment. As pointed out by the LDOE guidance, it is the responsibility of each local School Board, Superintendent, and other school leadership to “make decisions based on the unique needs of their community” as to what specific regulations and procedures are needed to accommodate the introduction of students and staff in the school setting that ensures their safety and health, while providing the educational resources that students need to advance.

Allowing the Superintendent and staff to create administrative regulations and procedures based on LDOE guidelines means that they can be altered as needed without School Board approval. The Superintendent will have the flexibility to immediately accommodate recommendations from the LDOE or Department of Health.

Forethought Consulting has developed this policy regarding the LDOE guidance. The new policy Public Health Emergency, grants the authority to the Superintendent to create and maintain the necessary administrative regulations and procedures.
